Trans Inclusion Resource List for Professionals

Issue 20
September 2023

Note:

Inclusion on this list does not imply an endorsement of content or services.

About the List

This extensive resource list has been developed by Gendered Intelligence to provide a starting point of references for many of the questions that organisations and professional individuals have around trans inclusion.

Originally offered to enable people to continue self-directed learning after training, the list is useful to anyone wishing to improve their inclusivity as an employer and/or as a service provider.

It has three main sections, as well as the references for the prevalence statistics we use in our training:

- Organisations.....4
- Online References.....8
- Reports and Studies30
- Prevalence Statistics39

The ‘Online References’ and ‘Reports and Studies’ sections are further subdivided by theme to help you find what you are looking for.

The majority of the links relate to UK services, references and support. However, there are ‘International’ headings under both the ‘Online References’ and ‘Reports and Studies’ sections, and a handful of international items throughout the list.

Organisations

The following is a selection of the more established national trans organisations which can act as ‘gateway’ organisations to link into a wider network of trans related groups and services. In addition, there are many local support organisations across the UK.

A more comprehensive list of both national and local organisations, including peer support, can be found via these links:

- TransUnite searchable listing of trans support groups at <https://www.transunite.co.uk/>
- GIRES ‘TransWiki’ clickable map at www.tranzwiki.net/

Gendered Intelligence

Gendered Intelligence (GI) is a registered charity that works to increase understandings of gender diversity and improve the lives of trans people.

There are multiple strands to our work:

- Youth & Community Services
- Professional and Educational Services
- Public Engagement

Professional and Educational Services refers primarily to the work we deliver to organisations or professional individuals who want to be more trans inclusive both in terms of their services and their workplaces. This includes training, consultancy, events such as panel discussions and Q&As, workshops, lectures and assemblies for young people in education, and our network for therapists and counsellors.

Youth & Community Services covers our direct provision for trans people especially young trans and gender questioning people. This includes youth work – regular groups, residential, trips and activities, 1:1 support and mentoring for young trans people in educational environments; our parents and carers group; a helpline commissioned by several GICs for those on their waiting lists; one-off special projects, and our volunteering programmes

Public Engagement covers our work in the policy and media spheres, responding to consultations, to requests for interviews and expert opinion; media engagement; engaging our supporters, the general public, and others who may be interested in our work; and research.

Online References

The following is a selection of online trans-related resources. It is by no means comprehensive, but will provide you with initial information on the current approach in a number of settings.

However, please note the documents are not all statements of best practice as that's still developing in many areas. If you think something can be done better, then strive to make that happen, and showcase the good practice for others to learn from.

Glossaries of Terms

Here is a selection of glossaries – there are many more online. These have been selected as being either relatively new, or containing some measure of update commitment, and containing few or no descriptions that Gendered Intelligence would regard as wholly inaccurate. However, even comparing these, you'll notice differences of understanding even between some of the more common terms.

Gender: A Few Definitions – Brook

Prevalence Statistics

Approx 1:100 people fall somewhere under the broader trans umbrella:

ONS 2021 Census Data

The 2021 census data released in Jan 2023 shows about 0.5% of the population said that their gender identity was different from their sex registered at birth (1 in 200). However, this is the first time people have been asked this question, and the figure will represent a bare minimum. 6% percent of people did not answer this question, and it is reasonable to think a proportion of those are trans folk who are unwilling to disclose their trans status on a government form, or who live in households where the form was completed on their behalf by someone who doesn't know they are trans.

www.ons.gov.uk/peoplepopulationandcommunity/culturalidentity/genderidentity/bulletins/genderidentityenglandandwales/census2021

People aged 16 to 24 years were the most likely age group to have said that their gender identity was different from their sex registered at birth, with 1.00% (63,000) identifying as such. This compares with 0.54% (262,000) of the overall population. The proportion of people who identified as trans decreased with each successive age group, falling to 0.22% for those aged 75+. This is a common picture across LGBT+ statistics, and is thought to reflect that it has become progressively more possible to live as a visible LGBT+ person over time.

UK National LGBT Survey - Research Report, 2018

First national LGBT survey – 108,000 respondents incl. 13% trans people - summary and full reports

www.gov.uk/government/publications/national-lgbt-survey-summary-report

The 2018 government LGBT survey report by the Government Equalities Office says (p14) (our bold):

“There is currently no robust measure of the size of the trans population in the UK. Applying estimates of population prevalence from studies in other countries suggests that between 0.35% and 1% of the UK population might be trans, although this does not include non-binary people. ...”

Given that the report also says (p16):

“Of all respondents, 49% were men (including 3% trans men), 42% were women (including 3% trans women), and 7% were non-binary. The remaining respondents either had an ‘other’ gender identity (1%) or said that they did not know or preferred not to say (1%)”, this indicates that non-binary may, in fact, be a majority identity amongst trans people and applying that to the 0.35% - 1% statistics gives a range inclusive of non-binary people, of at least 0.7% - 2%

Size and Distribution of Transgender and Gender Nonconforming Populations: A Narrative Review (2019), Goodman, Adams, Corneil Kreukels, Motmans & Coleman

This meta-analysis identifies a range with 1% at its centre, and acknowledges both that clinical studies capture only a proportion of the trans* population and the trend towards more people identifying as trans*:

“The literature addressing this topic spans five decades and presents data from 17 countries. On balance, the data indicate that people who self-identify as TGNC represent a sizable proportion of the general population with realistic estimates ranging from 0.1% to 2%, depending on the inclusion criteria and geographic location. Clinic-based studies seem to capture only a small subset of the TGNC population. Temporal trends show that TGNC population is undergoing rapid changes in terms of its size and in terms of its demographic characteristics.”

Other Information

Recent studies indicate that increasing numbers of young people in particular identify outside the gender binary, so 1% is likely to be conservative:

The May 2021 US report Prevalence of Gender-Diverse Youth in an Urban School District (American Academy of Paediatrics) indicates that 9.2% of teens don't identify with the binary, as reported here: www.them.us/story/high-schooler-gender-diversity-study

The 2022 US Pew Research Center survey found that 1.6% of U.S. adults are transgender or nonbinary, and over 5% of young adults in the U.S. say their gender is different from their sex assigned at birth: www.pewresearch.org/fact-tank/2022/06/07/about-5-of-young-adults-in-the-u-s-say-their-gender-is-different-from-their-sex-assigned-at-birth/
